Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-12 and 73-75, drawn to an electrode head, classified in class 600, subclass 372.
- II. Claims 13-35, drawn to a bio-medical probe, classified in class 600, subclass 372.
- III. Claims 36-72, drawn to a method of impedance imaging, classified in class 600, subclass 547.
- IV. Claims 76 and 77, drawn to a probe for skin cancer examination, classified in class 600, subclass 547.
- V. Claims 78-82, drawn to a camera for acquiring images of skin lesions, classified in class 600, subclass 587.
- VI. Claims 83-90, drawn to a method of examining a patient, classified in class 128, subclass 898.
- VII. Claims 91-99, drawn to a method of providing an indication of a malignancy level of an anomaly, classified in class 128, subclass 898.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it broadly recites the electrode. The subcombination has separate utility such as sensing signals without the particular sensing circuit.

Inventions II and IV are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it broadly recites the impedance probe. The subcombination has separate utility such as sensing signals without a camera.

Inventions IV and V are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it broadly recites the camera. The subcombination has separate utility such as acquiring images without sensing electrical signals.

Inventions I,II and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention V has separate utility such as acquiring images without electrical sensing. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I,II and III,VI,VII are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the methods could employ a different electrode structure.

Inventions III, VI, and VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions relate to varying methods of examining a patient.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
